WAR on S.D. Bakers

Did You 'Wonder' about Price Cutting ?

New York Concern Ruins Trade

Because the Continental Baking Co. has been steadily losing trade in San Diego and cannot prosper in honest competition in an open market, its New York management decided to start a war of cut-throat competition as was done in Los Angeles during the past 14 months and resulted in a number of Bakeries going out of business. It is evident that the Continental Co., makers of Wonderbread, invested too much money in a large plant which was uncalled for the amount of trade it is able to service in San Diego. Owing to its own poor speculative judgment, the Wonderbread produced no seven wonders in dividends for the New York stockholders. There need be no wonder about it, since no local people can sell anything to the Continental; everything is bought in New York and shipped down here. And naturally, that creates a feeling of resentment among San Diegans who prefer to patronize home business and the Wonderbread does not sell as expected.

The Continental people, though, are not shouldering their own mistakes and are not learning to do better. Instead, they complained for several years against the practice of selling stale bread at low prices. By selling stale bread not only at the bakeries, but also in shops on 12th avenue, retailers' business is hurt and many people prefer to shop for stale bread. There is some sense to this complaint, but it cannot possibly account for all the troubles of the poor demand for Wonderbread in San Diego. Other bakers have to contend with the same factors, but they make ends meet.

Monday morning, last week, San Diego awoke to the fact that Wonderbread was reduced in price from 13c to 10c and from 10c to 8c for the pound and one half loaf as well as the pound loaf, respectively. But this price war is not helping Wonderbread sales; wholesale bakers are meeting the reduction and Julia Lee Wright bread sells a penny below the Wonderbread to protect its own trade.

What is the result of this trade war? The same as the price war among oil companies. When the big moguls could not make all the profit they wanted they started cutting prices till they put independent service stations out of business and then raised gasoline prices sufficiently to recoup the loss while gobbling up the territory of those they had ruined.

This practice was used in Los Angeles by large baking chains. Continental is a chain having 100 or more outlets in various cities. In Los Angeles Ralph's Stores put on 3 days cut rate specials of 5c per bread. Safeway and others met the price, but as the practice increased Oliver-Hauck, Jackson-Taub, Davis "Perfection" and 100 other bakeries, each one the size of the average San Diego bakery, was put out of business.

E. F. Christensen, local manager for Continental declined to give information on this strange behavior of his outfit, having been ordered by his New York bosses to sit tight. Not till Saturday 2 pm did he inform the other bakeries in San Diego that the war would start on Monday. And what is the result? Route salesmen are already losing $5 to $15 weekly in wages. The question is: Do San Diegans want our bakeries bankrupted to give the upper hand to this New York concern that buys nothing in San Diego?

Since the Wonder-people are proceeding on the theory that we have too many bakeries in San Diego and some must be closed, what will your verdict be, Mrs. Housewife? Will you vote to close a San Diego concern that spends money in your city and takes a part in your community affairs, or will you decide that in that case it would be best to close the outside concern since it doesn't fit in here anyway!

At present flour has gone up 30c to 40c a barrel. Shortening went up $2.50; milk powder is up 2c a pound; wrapping paper 7½c a pound. And earnings of national bakeries have fallen in the U. S. 25% last year. When their stocks fall on the market, when prices of ingredients are rising and a New York concern decides to ruin your San Diego bakers, should you wonder whether to cut out the Wonderbread, since all prices are the same anyway?

We leave this question for you to decide and ponder over. Here are the San Diego bakers who have helped build San Diego and share good and hard times with us faithfully, like good citizens: Snowflake; Cramers; Winter; Conkling; Franco-Superior; Bohemian Rye.

An Independent Baker Speaks Up

Not all bakers have cut their price to meet the N. Y. bread war. I found one who told me his story: "I cannot do what those Jews are doing. They do not spend their own money. They issue a block of stock, sell it to the sucker public and then decide to put the Gentile bakers out of business. They have done it in Los Angeles. I was there and saw it. They ruined bakeries like ours in San Diego by cutting the price. I am telling my customers that I cannot cut the price and give them the same kind of bread. Most of my customers stay with me. They know me for years and they appreciate what this bread war is about."

Pickets at San Diego Hotel

FAKE CHARGE DISPLAYED

Spreckels Co.'s Pay as Low as 12½c per hour. Could you Live on this ?

This is one of the signs carried by the Culinary AFL union in front of the San Diego Hotel by the numerous pickets who are resolved to make this hotel a closed shop. Encouraged by the California Supreme Court ruling of 4 to 3, that closed shop picketing is legal, at times as many as three dozen pickets clutter up the sidewalk in front of the Spreckels owned hotel. The "strike" is on because the management fired three waitresses. The AFL told them whom to hire, the management countered with, "nothing doing."

I walked up to several of the pickets carrying the 12½c per hour sign. "Have you been working for 12½c?" — No, I did not." — "Who has?" — "I don't know, but some of the waitresses did." — "How did the hotel get by Stanley Gue (labor commissioner) with such stuff?" — "I don't know, ask that fellow over there, he is the captain."

So I asked him and he did not know. Then I asked another picket: "Have you been working at this hotel?" — "I did not." — "Do you know somebody that did?" — No, I don't." — "Then why do you carry that sign?' — "The business agent gave it to me."

Finally I found one young fellow who acknowledged having worked for one week. He pulled out a slip from an employment agency from Los Angeles showing that they had sent

San Diego Union Supresses Paul Mallon's Comment on Ed Izac

On the 17th of October, Paul Mallon sent over the wire service from Washington some very timely information. But it never appeared in the San Diego Union's column that morning. It did not appear because the Union is an honest to goodness newspaper which does not believe in censorship, especially not during a political campaign.

Just imagine Paul Mallon saying something that Ed Fletcher, the real estate racketeer and stooge for the Union-Tribune, could capitalize! The Union would put his picture right in the center of the column as the Los Angeles Examiner did on Nov. 17 with Ed Izac.

As it is Fletcher and the Copley papers have a secret dicker by which Fletcher is to pull some chestnuts for them in Washington and so the outfit turned thumbs down on, — Paul Mallon — by mutilating his column. Since there is no opposition daily in San Diego it devolves upon us to expose the "American spirit of Freedom of the Press" residing in the high binders and censors of the Copley press. And for the delectation of those with a sense of humor we reproduce the portion deleted by the censor:

In case any voters are yet in doubt as to what the issue is in this congressional election, Representative Kent Keller, the Ava, Ill., Democrat, has taken steps to set them right. In a message urging the reelection of his colleague, Ed Izac of San Diego, Mr. Keller has informed the world through the Congressional Record:

"Summarizing the record of Ed Izac, the following figures show how much money he brought into his district during his four years in Congress: 1937, 5 million dollars; 1938, 8 million; 1939, 9 million; 1940, 22 million dollars.

"The next four years are the most important period in the history of San Diego. If Congressman Izac is retained in Congress, San Diego people have every reason to expect it to become the greatest naval base on the Pacific Coast."

Ed Fletcher's Racket

Milnor Finances Fletcher To Open Mexican Border

Nathan Milnor, finance committee member of the Democrats of So. California, has contributed a very substantial sum of money ($1,000) to Ed Fletcher's campaign for congress. Nathan Milnor, as a Democrat on the committee charged with raising funds for the Democratic ticket, of course has the privilege to contribute to whom he pleases. But the reason for this particular contribution will make San Diego merchants sit up and take notice. Milnor owns the Milnor's Inc. stores in Tijuana, at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles and in Hollywood.

Upon request and complaint of San Diego merchants who were losing trade from the free entry port of Tijuana competition, where people could buy for less because no tariff was added as in the U. S., Congressman Izac succeeded to close the border between certain hours of the night as well as enforced the law concerning 24 hours residence status in Mexico before duty free importations were permitted into the U. S. Of course, Milnor's store in Tijuana lost trade and to get even Fletcher is receiving a nice, fat contribution from Milnor who expects Fletcher to rescind the closing order by using his influence with the treasury department, if elected. The San Diego HERALD who hollered loudest for closing the border to "protect" San Diego trade is the same one who now hollers for Fletcher and against Izac. It's quite peculiar, is it not, what a little money will do during a political campaign.

"De ARYAN COMMENTS"

(From Radio Talk, Wednesday 8:15 pm. KGB)

Tonight is "No Third Term Night," proclaimed by Republicans and Democrats alike. I believe it appropriate that all of us who are opposed to the perpetuation of the New Deal in place of the American traditions of individual sovereignity of the citizen, review the whole field of human government and ideology to get the proper perspective of our own situation. Mrs. de Aryan who has not travelled as much as I have and who has not made it her life study to analyze human trends and governments, represents a normal cross-section of the American public. In tonight's program she is asking questions which most of you have been asking for the past few years. I happen to be one of the men who has made it his business to study human kind and analyze trends and conditions scientifically; I have studied contemporary as well as ancient literature on the subject; I know the view point of the European, the Asiatic and the American, because I lived on those continents, not merely as a traveler, but working with brains and brawn, earning my living like every other native, so my information is first hand.

Tragedy of New Deal

VEIVA—What is going to happen to us and to our children if the New Deal continues in office after Nov. 5th?

KOSTI—I agree with all those public men who have stated repeatedly in private and in public that a third term for President Roosevelt will see the United States in actual warfare in two to six months after election. War will be declared either against Japan or against the whole axis. In that case it is quite possible that every newspaper will be forced to praise the war and the New Deal or else fold up, while many a fearless American will find himself in a concentration camp if he dared voice an opinion to the contrary. As to our children, they are too young yet to be drafted, but the war psychology, of course, will affect all young people. Civilization always retrogresses during wartime and the cost of living will rise sky-high; the national debt will mount until our people will be as tax ridden and poor as the average London worker is. The New Deal is following the English pattern to bring America down to the level of the British standard in more ways than one.

No Third Term

Our undercover operative on the Willkie special train sends in a belated report that the best extemporaneous speech of the California tour was made by a Willkie admirer, rather than by the candidate. At Sacramento, a woman newspaper vendor, who has sold papers in the State Capitol for years past, pressed her way through the throng to the G.O.P. candidate and exclaimed: "Mr. Willkie, I hope we have an inauguration next January; not a coronation!"

VEIVA—Are you not afraid of the prospect of war? You are so uncompromising in expressing your honest thought—are you not afraid of what might happen to you?

Divine Law Prevails

KOSTI—There is where my philosophy of life comes in to prove itself. Instead of being afraid I am looking forward to see how the power of truth demonstrates itself when the world goes crazy. While the mass of the people becomes hypnotized with the obsession that might makes right, they cannot destroy the power of God, nor can they evade the consequences of breaking divine law and His Commandments. Naturally, the worse things get, the nearer it drives us to God in whom alone we can rely in times of danger. We are really fortunate that we have the experience of living today to witness the power of the truth over a crazy world where demagogues make war.

VEIVA—Now keep your feet on the ground and don't go religious on me. Let's be practical. Sky piloting is not going to stop Hitler or Japan. For national defense something more material and drastic is needed, such as bombing planes and ammunition, not flights of fancy.

KOSTI—That is the way it appears to others, too, who do not realize that all material things originate in the mind. It is because people have not learned to think that they are trusting in war and war machines for so-called security, when it actually spells death, cripples, poverty, disease and loss of liberty under militarism. War results only where people imagine that might makes right. If, instead, they would learn to find out what's right and then respected these rights according to the Golden Rule they would turn this world into a paradise. When people can throw billions into destruction and war indebtedness, how much good could they produce by reversing the process? That is what makes life worth while, not how much brutality and toughness we can muster to keep the British empire going and hold other nations in subjection to the British rule, by helping Great Britain. After all it is a matter of human unfoldment. In the evolution of mankind we find that the vast majority of the peoples of the earth have not evolved yet to reason rightly. For this reason higher mentalities forge forward and assume rulership over them. That is why the British succeeded to colonize peoples of inferior mentalities. Had they ruled them for the benefit of the natives, in place of for British profit through exploitation, the natives would love the British enough to insist on continuance of British rule. You noticed that we treated the Filipinos much better. Today the Filipinos are are wondering whether they want to separate from the U. S. after all. Good rulers produce good results and the people find it out, especially in times of stress.

VEIVA—But for practical purposes what difference does it make whether Roosevelt or Willkie is elected? Both are for helping the British.

KOSTI—Oh, there is a world of difference. Roosevelt's past record shows that he keeps no promise but is striving to perpetuate emergencies and centralize more power in his own hands, ignoring the constitution and the system of checks and balances. Willkie, on the other hand, has shown that he is placing his faith in the American system of administration through checks and balances. Remember that Willkie used to be a Democrat and at first was even a supporter of Roosevelt. But when he saw that the New Deal was infringing on the private rights of Americans, which rights the constitution upholds and which is the foundation of the unprecedented prosperity of the U. S., Willkie turned his back on the New Deal and sided in with the private American citizen.

Menace of Burocracy

VEIVA—Yes, he sided in with the power trust, they are not the average Americans.

KOSTI—That's where you are mistaken. The socalled power trust has its good features as well as bad ones. Had Roosevelt knocked off the bad edges and respected the good features, he would have been a genius; but instead he went to work to destroy private utilities as a whole and put the government in business on a wasteful scale increasing the taxburdens and supplanting the power trust with a burocracy more reprehensible than the worst features of private holding companies.

VEIVA—How could it be any worse that the stranglehold of big corporations who ruthlessly destroy competition?

KOSTI—How could it? Why, its the very nature of the thing. No matter how bad a private corporation is it still is a private concern. But when a burocracy turns bad, why—that's the government itself. You can still go to the government for redress against the wrongs of a corporation, but who will protect you against the tyranny of the government? What is known as the New Deal is nothing but national socialism in America. National socialism in Germany is called NAZISM and because the same ideology is hatched out and cultivated by the new deal it does not make the American variety of Nazism less noxious and dangerous to human liberty and welfare than its German variety. Wendell Willkie recognized this trend toward Nazism in the government of the New Deal and he was man enough to go to bat against it and he licked it, too. He knows what it is and how to fight it successfully. He dares stand up against it and name it by name. The menace to American liberty lies in this ideology of national socialism nicely honeyed by the squire of Hyde Park and dished out in his fireside chats to 'my friends'; but it destroys American tradition, American concepts, even American law; for it destroys the system of checks and balances.

VEIVA—But Willkie favors conscription and helping the British.

KOSTI—You must not expect too much all at once. The American public have not yet awakened to the truth that might does not make right in the case of Great Britain, but that the laws of God prevail in peace as well as war times. Wendell Willkie himself did not realize how bad the New Deal was when at first he supported Roosevelt. While I was warning against it, he worked for it. But finally he woke up and realized what a viper he had been nursing along and as soon as he found it out, he rallied his energies to step on its head. Willkie is for helping England because he lives under the illusion that England is our first line of defense against Hitler. But our enemy is not Hitler nor the German, Italian or Japanese people. Our enemy is our own ignorance that adheres to methods which bring about war. The other peoples in the world have just as much right in the sight of God to live on earth and mind their own business as we have. But, they, too, being ignorant do not realize that might does not make right. The present war is nothing but the natural outgrowth of feudalism and plutocracy of the international bankers. Feudalism gives to privileged individuals the power to collect taxes, rents, tribute, tariffs from those who work and produce. That makes for poverty of the masses. Then the masses cannot consume all they produce because their products cost more when sold on the public market than they got in wages; — the various industrial combines, financed and controlled by the international bankers, are looking for markets to sell the surplus in other countries. This fight for markets that the international bankers may make a profit, is what produces wars.

VEIVA—What can Willkie do about that any more than Roosevelt could?

KOSTI—Willkie will not rush into this war to protect British markets against German competition in South America, Europe or Asia. Willkie, like every other American who has swallowed the propaganda of British supremacy that interferes with American shipping and the mails on the high seas, will arm this nation to defend itself against invasion, but not for a war of aggression. This is the fundamental difference between those two men. As long as people are what they are, wars will go on and profiteers will make money off the ignorant; but it makes all the difference to us whether our president will center his energies to defend us against invaders or whether he will go out to start a scrap overseas in Europe or Asia.

Vote for Wendell L. Willkie

VEIVA—Then you are going to vote for Willkie, after all?

KOSTI—Yes, of the two he is the better choice. Human evolution is slow, but under constitutional government the individual at least has a chance. Under the Nazi system, which is the New Deal, the individual loses his chance.

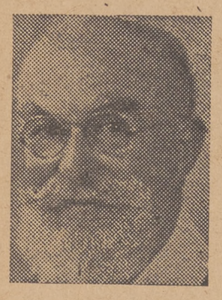
HEALTH-GERMS

By George Starr White, M. D.

DIGESTIVE TROUBLES

Many persons who have digestive troubles, can gradually overcome them by eating only one kind of food for each meal; eating about five times a day. A food taken by itself may agree, when taken in combination with other classes of food, it may cause distress



Dr. Geo. Starr White

Be sure to avoid all cold foods and drinks. Take nothing colder than room - temperature, assuming the room to be 68 to 70 degrees F. Some patients find it helpful to take nothing colder than 100 degrees F.—that is, a little above normal body-temperature.

All liquid FOODS, such as milk, buttermilk, soups, vegetable and fruit juices, should be eaten slowly with a SPOON. DRINK only water and herb teas. "Eat" teas with a spoon also, U get less gas that way.

Unless the patient is absolutely unable to handle solids, I never advise an all-liquid diet; as such a diet makes the stomach "lie down on the job," and is apt to cause more gas than ever. So eat mostly solid food if posible. A pint to a quart of Peppermint Tea can be taken daily, to good effect, in most cases of "touchy stomach." Drink it before or after meals, but never along with the meal.

If your food is chewed thoroly, the system can get more nourishment from it. Always eat slowly.

The frame of mind in which U eat, has as much to do with digestion as the food itself. Worry; lack of rest; and reading or doing brain-work while eating, or immediately after eating, are all causes of indigestion.

Lying down on the abdomen or right side (never on the back) for an hour after each meal, and practicing deep, abdominal breathing, is a great aid to digestion.

on the people of this district for the sum of $16,500.00.

No one connected with the 22nd agricultural had anything to do with this deal. Headed by Henry Churchman, they are a splendid body of men who are doing a necessary work for the community and doing it unselfishly and adequately. Not one of the present directors was serving when Fletcher made his haul.

No, this hocus-pocus of Fletcher's took place back in January, 1936, two years AFTER he was elected by the people of this district to a position of honor and trust. NOTE THAT WORLD HONOR.

Ed Fletcher has made his biggest killings by selling at high prices worthless lands to the communities of San Diego County. Throughout the years he has kept his coffers filled by such hauls. When he was elevated to the post of State Senator many thought he would reform, make use of his AGILE mind for the benefit of his constituents, but far from feeling any sense of responsibility he immediately began laying plans for the most amazing gyp of all—foisting upon his fellow citizens a patch of tidelands in an isolated estuary for a fabulous sum.

This was the Del Mar Fair-Grounds Steal. It was one of the boldest, most unconscionable mulcting of the public of any of his career.

To present this episode in the life of a man now seeking an office of responsibility and honor, we must be very sure that every fact can be confirmed from the records in the court house. I assure you that every statement made in this article is a matter of record.

There are three kinds of honesty. There is Common Honesty, There is Business Honesty, is of a more dubious sort— "Business is Business." Then there is Legal Honesty, which has little standing among ordinary citizens.

Legally, Ed Fletcher is honest. Legally, he has not defrauded widows and orphans. But from the day he started in business his reputation for COMMON Honesty has been nil. That is a serious statement, but a true one.

When in January of 1930 a woman poised for an instant on the rocky cliffs at La Jolla, and then leaped into the ocean, a suicide, Ed Fletcher could not be held legally responsible for her mental condition. He had only verbally promised her that her life savings, invested in land owned by one of his closed corporations, would afford her a life income. When his verbal promise proved false, and her life savings vanished, he was not legally responsible for her mental state. The money was in his pocket, so why worry?

For what is Honesty? What is Honor? They are only words. To you and me they have a meaning. Honor may be more precious than life itself. Perhaps a State Senator is beyond and above the need for honor. Perhaps his constituents are only easy marks , anyway, and should be flim-flammed out of their money.

Anyway the tide lands at Del Mar were nearly worthless. Lumping the land all together, in 1935, the County Assessor put a valuation on it of $2800.00.

They were owned by an outfit still in business, the South Coast Land Company, which for a while had its headquarters in Fletcher's office. Fletcher was a director and had acted as their agent all the time since it started to operate in San Diego County.

Probably he is not a director now. He has put himself in a condition which is called "Judgment Proof." By a neat series of deals, completed this year, all of his holdings were entrusted to a local bank and to the Grossmont Park Company. You will not find Fletcher's name anywhere as owning so much as a share of stock. All his tracks are covered. He cannot sign a check.

And he dare not appear on a public platform and face his past.

The South Coast Land Co. (Fletcher) was organized in 1906. It originally had a capitalization of $200,000 and no debt. It now has a capitalization of a million dollars and a million dollar debt. Maybe the bondholders will eventually be left holding the sack, as they were on Mr. Fletcher's various Mattoon Districts. It owns a lot of land in this county, some of it good, some of it worthless. It was one of those worthless tracts that State Senator Fletcher contrived to stick the people of this county for—for $16,500 and other considerations.

He used his brother-in-law, E. C. Batchelder for the go-between. When the staggering slight-of-hand, whereby the tide lands were transferred to the people of the county, was all ready, then this South Coast Land Company transferred its title to Batchelder. And not until then. Can it be the "Colonel" dare not trust his own brother-in-law? For it is an enlightening fact, shown in the records, that the transfer to Batchelder was not made until AFTER he had sold the land to the district. The district paid the money to Batchelder and it was recorded on the 24th of January, 1936.

It was three days later, on the 27th that he acquired legal title to the land. Where was the money in the meanwhile?

Paul Richie for Assembly

(Political Statement)

Assemblyman Paul Richie, candidate for re-election to the legislature told of the work of the State legislature at a lunch meeting of Democrats last week.

"There seems to have been an effort made in this campaign to promote misunderstanding," Richie said. "It's work should not be confused with the tasks of a city council. The paving of a street or alley, or the placing of new lamp posts in this place or that can be no part of state legislation. Neither can the legislature do anything for any purely local development or promotional undertaking. That would be a violation of its functions and of the constitution.

"Three years experience on the city council might be of value to an assemblyman, but six six years experience in the assembly itself is of much more value," Richie concluded.

WATER
Means GROWTH

San Diego must proceed, IMMEDIATELY, to provide a greater water supply, and greater water facilities.

These are demanded by our fast-growing population (36% increase in the last 10 years) and by the vastly expanded Navy and Aircraft Programs. AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IS SAN DIEGO'S RESPONSIBILITY TO CO-OPERATE FULLY IN THE LOCAL PHASE OF THE NATIONAL DEFENSE PROGRAM.

All Authorities Agree We Must:

Build San Vicente Dam at once, to assure an ample supply; extend and enlarge the city distributing system, to make it capable of meeting the demands imposed upon it.

By approving these propositions, we not only will safeguard our future, but provide jobs for hundreds of skilled and unskilled workers for several years, and stimulate local business and industry.

NO TAX INCREASE: Additional water revenues from enlarged facilities will pay for these projects without increasing taxes.

These projects are indorsed by scores of organizations and civic leaders.

Let's Keep Growing!

by voting YES next Tuesday on
Prop. 1 — Enlarging water distributing system, $1,300,000.
Prop 2 — Building San Vicente Dam, $3,000,000
Each bond issue will carry an interest rate probably as low at 3%.

Vote YES for Water

TOCSIN-anti-TOXIN

If we remember correctly: the noun "colleague" presupposes "association with some others in some employment"; while the verb "colleague" from Latin colligare, denotes " to join, to unite, to conspire. to join in alliance."

Thus, presuming the publick prints of Sunday, October 20th, in the year of Our Lord 1940, have quoted your aims correctly we may then say: we are permitted to behold in your "American Defense Group", consisting of more than 300 faculty members of the California State University, the formation of a quasi "Holy Alliance for Conspiracy" with the avowed purpose of accomplishing what? Of all things: TO SAVE DEMOCRACY!

We might weep at your dilemma, shedding copious tears, but finding our lachrymal glands having usurped the situation by going on an up-to-date New Deal sitdown strike, the only alternative at our disposal is to—guffaw Homerically, which we are doing with great gusto; all the while trusting the cause for merriment will be found sufficiently contagious as to have our dear colleagues join in a joke that is on themselves.

Remembering the charming saying of one whom they called "L'uomo Universale" (the universal-minded man), but who called himself Leonardo the Florentine: "The Truth of things is a perfect food for fine intelligences; but it is not for wandering wits", we trust our d. C's. will want to include themselves only in the former category.

Wherefore, when in your adoption of Principles you state in one and the same breath that:

(1) at the present time external forces constitute a serious menace to our democracy

(2) there must be a general quickening of our sense of responsibility to democratic government and an alertness to preserve the essential character of that government you have become guilty—you will grant— of an out-and-out anacoluthon, and such offense, o! dear Colleagues, is it or is it not, considered an unpardonable sin—in academica?

The threat you speak of, by external forces, no one will have the brazen effrontery to deny that such threat did not exist per se—until it had become a time-proven fact to the vanquished that the principle of "Vae Victis!" (woe to the conquered) was to be perpetuated for all time to come; that the solemn promise for general disarmament your "Democracies" had no intention of ever carrying out, while Germany was completely disarmed for 15 long years, besides being totally ruined economically and in health, because of your noble "Democracies" diabolic intent of keeping these capable and industrious people—"to whom we owe so much" —in permanent chains of serfdom.

KARMIC HARVEST

With all your learning it should have been obvious to you, of all people, that no first-class race can ever be subjugated for long.

Besides there were some certain reminders sufficiently strong to imbue with a holy fire to LIVE every man, woman and child of a terribly abused nation.

Have you forgotten, or did you ever know—your Figleaves of Mendacity printing everything that's fit to print not seeing fit to print these shameless horrors:

That millions died of starvation, or were crippled for life, because after the Armistice the allied food-blockade was made more tight, afflicting most seriously the children without all milk.

That thousands of expecting mothers carried their babies for as much as 12 to 13 months, nature—more kind than man—continuing the gestatory process beyond the normal term.

That, notwithstanding civilian protests in England and France black Senegal troops, at the behest of the French High Command, were quartered in the Rhineland and Palatinate, where the mayors of the towns were forced upon the point of gun or bayonet to equip brothels and supply them with decent girls and women, because there were no others, and that this shameless and deliberate thing was done on a "card-system", like punching a clock?

Ambassador White and Lord Balfour

Have you forgotten, or do you prefer to remain ignorant of conversations such as our American Henry White wrote: 1907 "Balfour (somewhat lightly): 'We are probably fools not to find a reason for declaring war on Germany before she builds too many ships and takes away our trade.'

"White: 'You are a very high-minded man in private life. How can you possibly contemplate anything so politically immoral as provoking a war against a harmless nation which has as good a right to a navy as you have? If you wish to compete with German trade, work harder.'

"Balfour: 'That would mean lowering our standard of living. Perhaps it would be simpler for us to have a war.'

"White: 'I am shocked that you of all men should ennunciate such principles.'

"Balfour (again lightly): ' Is it a question of right or wrong? Maybe it is just a question of keeping our supremacy.' "

MR. CHAMBERLAIN and his loaded Umbrella

Do you not read books or do you prefer to remain ignorant (like W. R. Hearst) when your friends are concerned. Says Dr. Brown Landone in PROPHECIES OF MELCHI-ZEDEK (p. 148):

"The British PEOPLE wanted disarmament and world peace, but on March 12 of 1925 in the Council of the League of Nations—Chamberlain, himself, emphatically rejected Czechoslovakia's proposal for disarmament!

"Since the Council is constituted so that ONE veto can prevent any action, Chamberlain alone by his rejection was able to shatter the hope of disarmament. Immediately all nations became so apprehensive that they rushed to buy munitions to prepare for more wars—exactly what the Machiavellians wanted."

Read and study, dear Colleagues! But you won't find the truth in works of IMPropaganda a la Harold Rugg—who's "on the carpet now." Poor Rugg's fetishism are the Red Gods Bakunin and Marx, alias Mordecai; and his beloved, non-esistent "Democracies."

"WE PLANNED IT SO"

In view of what you have read so far, it must have become apparent to you that if there is, as you say: "a serious menace to our democracy by external forces", ourselves must have been the causative factor of Agitation. It will not do to call others "trouble-makers" when it is ourselves precipitating the trouble (that is, our Invisible government), when, after projecting our interferences into other people's "Way of Life", the natural concomitant would be our own boomerang returning to us, on our foolish "concks." Just the great law of Cause and Effect.

Remember: A great people, crushed to earth, shall rise again!

Selective Military Service

Your next Principle enunciated is: " It is of extreme importance, there must be immediate organization for national defense. This defense should be based in part on selective military service."

Do you recall what Sophocles has Antigone say? This: "Jove loathes the boasts of a big mouth."

Have a care lest the masters who are running your "democracy" to their own liking, quite without your advice, and have given proof sufficient as to what they wish the "essential character of the government" to be, should remind you of this Jovian loathing of "the boasts of a big mouth."

As long as the present big "I AM" is the whole of the law and all of the State, you'll have to eat crow and like it.

In this "democracy", as you might have found out—except you did an excess Rip van Winkle—there is only one mouth that does all the talking,: for the Supreme Masters of the World (Kuhn Loeb), except the great Charlie McCarthy act himself as ventriloquist for the lesser Charlies.

And since (well founded) rumor has it that you have been taken over by non-Aryan High Finance (just as it was in Germany) we can but feel very sorry for your vaunted, but non-existent, "academic freedom".

QUINTESSENCE OF A PURE DEMOCRACY

The United States never were, nor were they ever intended to be, a Democracy, that is, a PURE democracy (or ABSOLUTE democracy) in which, as Locke says:

"The majority, having the whole power of the community, may employ all that power in making laws, and executing those laws; and there the form of government is a perfect DEMOCRACY."

The essence of a pure, absolute or perfect Democracy, its very sine-qua-non, is a high degree of homogeneity, that is to say, a certain sameness having been reached in the development of all its people, making possible their governing themselves, directly, with a high degree of uniformity and equality.

Such homogeneity existed within what you call "historic" times only in Athens (until it engaged in a disastrous Imperialistic spleen) and in some of the other ancient Greek states, and, within the limits of their power, the canton of Appenzell in Switzerland and the towns of the northern United States. These are, or were, the only instances of democracies of the first class.

Says Emerson: "In this open DEMOCRACY (of the town meeting), every opinion had utterance; every objection, every fact, every acre of land, every bushel of rye, its entire weight." But this was long ago.

Wherefore, all this talk-talk-talk about our own grandiose Democracy and "THE Democracies of the world" is a lot of hooey and phooey, for the simple reason that they just don't exist and all the shouting to the contrary won't make it so. Its nothing but bastard talk.

When pseudo-statesmen, or ambitious politicians mouth such palpable humbug, we must forgive them; they don't know any better. But when a learned body, dear Colleagues, imitate the rabble, instead of informing them better—we indeed have cause for grief and grievance.

The Founders knew what they were doing when they made this a REPUBLIC and not a democracy of absolute power in the hands of the people directly. Nowhere in the Constitution, or elsewhere, is found a single reference to "democracy"—it is always: REPUBLIC; (see the works of Calhoun and Madison). What egregious folly it would have been to entrust a "pure democracy" to a heterogeneous medley of people who have shown themselves incapable of preserving intact even their own and iron-clad Constitution.

FROM REPUBLIC TO EMPIRE

This is the metamorphosis of the United States:

For 25 years, with its apex around 1780, a democratic Republic; up to the time of the Civil War a counterfeit democratic republic; from thence to the end of the century a plutocratic oligarchy in the hands of the new Industrialists; from then on a more and more expanding Empire, in emulation of Britain and France, until by now, taken over, body and soul, by International Jewish High Finance (who get the profits and we pay the bills) we have become THE WORLD EMPIRE PAR EXCELLENCE. And they still have the monumental gall to palm this monstrous Frankenstein off as a bona fide Democracy.

Well, dear Colleagues: Here's hoping you live happily ever after in your—DICTATORSHIP.

More Labor Racket

him out as bar boy for $65 per month, to report to Mr. M. Strobel at the hotel. "I was hired as a strike breaker, but I quit after working one week." — "Did they pay you 12½c a day?" — "No, I got paid at the $65 rate." — "Then why do you carry this sign?" — "There are dishwashers who get paid that low, $1 a day for 8 hours, you cannot live on that".

So I went hunting for a dishwasher among the pickets, but they had none who had worked at those wages, or at the hotel at all. Dishwashers get 25c an hour and two meals. Bus boys get $52.50 a month, two meals, uniform and tips which amount to around $2 a day extra.

Am still hunting for the 12½c employe.

The "strike" is not over wages but over the right to hire and fire.

Mountain Meadow Dairy Remains Open Shop

The AFL dairy union attempted to bully the management of the Mountain Meadow Dairy into signing a closed shop contract. The employees held a meeting and voted 3 to 1 against joining, later making the vote unanimous. Only one man who was new, having come from Los Angeles with a union card and who had been employed only one week, walked out when the AFL ordered a strike. The dairy is working full time with a full crew and the management is complying with the expressed wishes of the employees in refusing to sign a closed shop contract. The Labor Leader, weekly mouth piece of the AFL racketeers, is printing lies in its columns to the effect that "employees walked out in protest over the company's low pay schedules", just as that racketeer sheet is lying about mythical employee who is getting only $1 a day by the Spreckles company. We cannot find the fellow and we hunted high and low for him. The Labor racketeers are unable to produce him.

Barber Still Independent

The AFL barbers' union has not succeeded in browbeating Murdock's barber shop into accepting dictation from the racketeers how to conduct a barber shop. All their picketing is helping to advertise Murdock's at 1141 Broadway. There are a few Americans left and they should be patronized.
